In Illinois all is excitement. The Springfield Journal says the rush to arms is wonderful. The State is fast becoming one vast camp. The Adjutant-General's office is besieged by a mob of applicants for authority to accept companies, and still the work goes on. Depression has passed away, and all now feel buoyant and hopeful.

Capt. Reeder came down from Clinton yesterday afternoon with a company 108 men, which we uderstand was raised thirty-six hours, in the two townships of Clinton and Helt, Vermillion county. This makes thirteen companies now in Camp Thompson. Vermillion county has done nobly, having sent during the year seven full companies, four in the call for 500,000, and three under the late call, and we learn there is still another company in the upper part of the County about full, and will be down in a day or two. This will make eight companies from one county. What county of the same population can say as much,
